THE Case with Many Barre People.

Many Barre citizens are handicapped with a bad back. The unceasing aches, constant misery, making it a burden and stooping or lifting a possibility. The back aches at night, preventing refreshing rest and in the morning is stiff and lame. Plasters and liniments may give relief but cannot reach the cause. To eliminate the pains and aches you must cure the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Can you doubt Barre evidence?

Mrs. E. B. Lewerenz, box No. 51, R. F. D. No. 2, Barre, Vt., says: "From my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills, I know that they are an effective kidney medicine. Last fall I began to suffer from kidney complaint and as one of my relatives had been cured of this trouble by Doan's Kidney Pills, I decided to follow his example and try them. My back was so lame and painful that I could not do any work that required stooping or lifting. After I had taken the contents of three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, I was relieved and again last spring when I used them, they benefited me. I keep Doan's Kidney Pills in the house all the time and when ever an opportunity occurs, I recommend them."

CABOT.

High School Commencement and Ninth Grade Graduation.

The commencement exercises of the Cabot high school began Sunday, June 10, with the baccalaureate address at the Methodist church, by Rev. F. E. Currier. The church, which was prettily decorated for the occasion, was filled with a large and attentive audience.

On Monday evening, the members of the senior class were given a reception by the juniors at the school hall. The room was made attractive by suitable decorations, and about eighty young people were present and enjoyed themselves in games, visiting and promenade. Light refreshments were served by the first-year class. A pleasant surprise of the evening was when Mr. Witham of the senior class, in behalf of the school, in a few well-chosen words presented Principal Gilmore a beautiful collar and cuff case, the gift of the pupils. Mr. Gilmore, who was taken by surprise, responded with appropriate words of appreciation.

An audience that packed the high school hall to its utmost capacity assembled to attend the graduation exercises on Tuesday evening. The stage was tastefully decorated with green and white. Above the stage, in front, on a background of evergreen, was the class motto, "Let us row, not drift." The program, which lasted about two hours, was well rendered and showed careful painstaking work on the part of both pupils and teacher, and reflected great credit on the school. In a few well-chosen words, Principal Gilmore presented each member of the class, 16 in all, a diploma.

On Wednesday, the students of the school enjoyed an outing at Sablin's pond and all reported a most enjoyable time. A large number of students and young people attended the promenade in the evening.

The many friends of Principal Gilmore will be pleased to learn that he will continue as principal of the high school for another year. The graduating exercises of the ninth-grade pupils took place last Friday evening, when a class of 16 received diplomas. Miss Laura Urban ranked the highest in examinations. Rev. V. W. Hendee gave a very interesting and enthusiastic address, urging the young to aspire to high ideals which are above their reach and are not measured through learning, but by all standards that make a perfect one, and by developing every part of their being will find that "man is the greatest mystery of all in the world." He placed great stress on the important fact to "make God justified in making you." Lawson's orchestra of Hardwick furnished music. Supt. W. B. Lance made some interesting remarks to the pupils and awarded their diplomas.

Miss Florence Inglis of Barre has been visiting Miss Goldie Hawes a few days.

Miss Ellen Mackey of Montpelier is a guest of Misses Ethel and Julia Woodard.

Mrs. Adena Sheldon and daughter of Philadelphia are spending the summer at the residence of her father on Kimball hill.

Friends of Fred Davison were pleased to learn that he had received second prize at the junior speaking contest at Middlebury college.

Monday, July 4, at 2:30 p. m., the high school baseball nine will cross bats with the East Hardwick nine at Cabot. Since the high school team was organized, it has played 16 games, losing only one.

The services at the Congregational church next Sunday morning will be an informal song service, conducted by Prin. Gilmore, at which several who attended the meeting of the Washington County Sunday School association will report the convention proceedings. An interesting service is anticipated.

Children's day exercises at the Congregational church last Sunday passed off pleasantly. The singing by the Walbridge quartet was especially enjoyed, as well as several solos and duets. Fifteen Bibles were presented to children who had arrived at the age of seven years, and 12 pupils of the primary class graduated to the junior class, receiving diplomas. The welcome was well carried out by the kindergarten.

Miss Ethel Carson entertained seven of her little friends at her home last Wednesday afternoon, in honor of her fifth birthday. Games were played, and a spider net proved the principal attraction for fun and surprise, when each one captured their spider, which consisted of a paper napkin, filled with peanuts and tied with a dainty blue ribbon. Refreshments of cake and ice cream were served. Several pictures of the little group were taken by Miss May Ormabee. Miss Ethel was well remembered by her little friends, who left several tokens of remembrance.

CONCORD GRANITE TRADE

Would Be Pretty Dubl Except for Two Big Jobs.

Concord, N. H., July 1.—Speaking of the granite business in Concord, a well-known cutter says:

"If it wasn't for the two big jobs that are being cut by the New England and John Swenson, granite business in Concord would be pretty dull just now for the reason that the monumental yards are doing nothing."

"There has been a decided falling off in the orders for monuments, and yards which formerly employed many men on that class of work would be entirely out of it now but for the work farmed out to them from the Swenson and New England yards."

"The number of cutters employed at the present time is about 350, only a few in excess of the total of last year. This is due to the falling off of the monument cutters and to the fact that John Swenson had a large force at work cutting the State House job, which he was able to keep on through the large contracts which came to him upon the completion of that work."

COST OF RUNNING A CIRCUS.

$8,000 a Day for the Big Shows Under Canvas—Clowns and Acrobats.

The operating expenses begin with the cost of wintering the circus apart from all repairs. For convenience sake, the car is made the unit. The twenty weeks that the show spends in winter quarters represent an expenditure of more than a thousand dollars for each car. So the big shows start on the road with a running-expenses deficit of about $80,000. Then, on the road, there is a cost of about $85 a day for each car; the unit charge is larger for the smaller shows, amounting to upward of a hundred dollars a car. Therefore, when the big show is traveling, it must pay out from $7,000 to $8,000 a day for seven days a week, while it has an income only six days in the week.

The largest single item of expense is the salary list, which amounts to $2,500 a day—a little less than $2.50 a day for each of the thousand employees, which shows that the average income of circus workers is very moderate, although it should be remembered that they get also board and lodging. The cost of food supplies for men and beast is about $1,500 daily, and, curiously enough, it is about equally divided between them, the individual cost of each meal being twenty-five cents, which amounts to $750 a day for the employees.

The salary list of the 400 performers, exclusive of the workers, amounts to about a thousand dollars a day, on an average, although it varies as acts are changed. The most highly paid acts are the "thrillers," which the press agent announces as "death-defying"—and there is no exaggeration. The famous "Dip of Death" stunt, in which a young woman is photographed on a property automobile that turned a somersault, commanded a thousand dollars a week, of which the young woman who risked health and life received $125 a week, while the remainder went to the owner of the act.

It is interesting to know that the danger of riding down that chute and making a complete revolution in the air had no terrors for even to young women. During the two years this thriller was featured, applications for the job averaged ten a week throughout the season, and they were mostly from well-to-do young women, who were not particular about the salary.

The "Dip of Death" was a valuable feature of the show, because of its advertising value, and it made the kind of sensation that has a powerful appeal, especially to people whose lives are such that they do not have often an opportunity to enjoy real excitement. And that was the only reason it was retained. For the real circus folk themselves, from the owners to the grooms, and especially the performers, despised the "act," because its appeal was wholly in its danger, and the question of skill did not enter at all. Anybody could be strapped to the seat and make the journey successfully—unless the machine broke down.

But when a "thriller" requires personal skill and strength, then the circus people admire; no matter how foolhardy it may be. That is why "Desperado," in the Barnum & Bailey show, who dives headfirst from the top of the arena onto an inclined plane, is considered a real performer. It takes tremendous nerve and skill to make that leap, for the slightest variation means death.

"Desperado" gets $800 a week, for two performances a day, and the other performers consider it a fair salary.

The clowns alone are a very expensive feature of the big show. The Barnum & Bailey and the Ringling shows each carry fifty clown-makers, and they get from $35 to $150 a week. They are highly valuable, but still $75,000 a season, not counting their living, seems a lot of money to spend on them.

Advertising expenses—the second largest item—reach a total of $1,700 a day. The "paper," which means all advertising matter, from the woodrope lithographs that make the countryside brilliant, if not beautiful, to the handbills, costs $800 a day. The newspaper advertising averages $300 a day; and the balance is expended in operating the advance-cars and in paying the charges of posting.

Transportation charges vary from $300 to $1,500 a day, but the average is little above the minimum, because of the long stops in cities. Two weeks in Chicago, a week in Philadelphia, and a week in Boston keep the average down. In a whole season, the show will not lose more than one day in travelling, Sundays excepted.

There are many small expenses connected with a circus that the outside world never hears about. For instance, the legal charges amount to seventy-five dollars a day on the road. This includes the salary of a high-priced lawyer, who always travels with the circus and is the hardest worked man with it next to the bandmen and the ticket sellers. If a small boy is kicked by a horse; if there is a dispute over a feed bill; if an eating official tries to cause trouble, the lawyer is called upon to make settlement.

Then there is a physician to look after the employees and to see that the strictest sanitary laws are obeyed. A drug wagon and a chemist supplement him. The work people pay nothing, but the performers must pay for the physician themselves. You see, if he shared of the act it is a factor in determining the salary, and the performer takes all the risks. There is a veterinary, with two assistants, who has a pretty big drug store of his own. It takes a lot of work to look after the many kinds of animals, and the "vets" don't loaf much. Law and medicine together cost the circus a deal more than $100 a day.—Everybody's Magazine.
